

security

event support services

Training Policy

Provide Security and Event Support Services Ltd recognises that training is a vital component to the development of any contract and to our business.

In accordance with our client's needs and expectations, our aim is to provide the highest trained security individuals available to ensure that not only is the contract itself operating to the maximum potential in terms of customer satisfaction, protection and client image but that the staff are motivated and loyal.

Provide Security and Event Support Services Ltd recognises that we must make substantial investments in our training function, which we believe will then offer significant benefits to our customers and staff alike.

Provide Security and Event Support Services Ltd recognises that continual assessment and refresher training is vital to achieving the highest standard of staff available.

Provide Security and Event Support Services Ltd recognises that training programmes, including induction, staff development, and specialist training courses, should always be available and we should always research new programmes as they do become available.

In line with our commitment to continual improvement, Provide Security and Event Support Ltd is committed to the ongoing training and development of staff at all levels taking fully into account the needs of our customers, as well as the ability, aptitude and ambition of our employees.

Clayton White
Managing Director